Liberty Baptist Church

The Married Young People's Department will be the Pastor's Pulpit guest this Sunday at Liberty Baptist Church. This department of the Sunday School is the most recent organization of our church, and is proving to be one of the most vital.

Sunday also is the beginning of Youth Week. This is a week when all the youth of the church are in charge of the services, and many other activities specially planned for the Young People of our church and community. A slate of officers have been chosen by the Youth Committee, and they will take over at the close of the morning service, and be in charge for a week. Dicky Smith has been chosen to serve as Youth Pastor, and Watkins Abbitt as associate.

About 50 other leaders have been placed in various places of leadership.

A special feature of Youth Week will be the appearance of a Youth Team made up of three college students, who will lead the program Friday night, Saturday and the services Sunday morning March 24. Mr. Ashley Wiltshire and Mr. Malcom Morris of the Washington and Lee University, and Miss Faye Stone of Longwood College make up the team. They will plan and lead in the activities of Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Another feature of Youth Week is the Associational Youth Rally to be held at Liberty Saturday night, March 23, at 7:15 p.m. This is made up of all the Youth of the Appomattox Baptist Association. The Youth of Liberty are to be hosts to the group. This program includes forums, fellowship, and an inspirational message by Ashley Wiltshire.

Authority

Lesson for March 17, 1963

It used to be that men were ranked high because they had authority over other men; the more men, the more authority. This still is the case. We call such men executives and we pay them fabulous salaries to run the great corporations of today. A man may build up inside these corporations what is called an "empire" of men who are under his control in some way. But there is another kind of authority, and it is sometimes more highly prized: it is authority on something. Men who have this may not be paid so well; they are usually less interested in money than the tycoons are. But they get a great deal of satisfaction out of life, and they seldom want to change places with the men who have authority over . . .

The Authority of Jesus

Jesus had both kinds of authority. But His was a rather extraordinary power. What made it extraordinary (among other causes) was this: He had none of the gimmicks, the special marks, the keys, ribbons, chevrons, the letters after His name, which mark men of authority, then and now. He was just Jesus of Nazareth, and His friends called Him Teacher so often that that was what most people called Him. His family had no influence. He had not had a scholar's education. He had no money. His own friends were mostly poor. He never met a payroll. He had no "empire" in the style of a Napoleon or a "Captain of Finance." Yet in spite of these handicaps, people did respect Him with an enthusiasm unbounded.

For after all, Jesus did have an empire, in the hearts of men. His friends felt this, and so did the masses of the people. It is important to note where Jesus' authority was, or what was He authority on, or over?

The Kingdom of the Mind

Jesus was one who had authority in the invisible kingdom of the Mind. As one people writer says, He knew what was in man. He could tell what people were thinking. He knew what to say to persuade people, and He knew too when people were not to be persuaded. He knew people from the inside. Because He knew this, He was also an authority over people's minds. Not that He told them what to think—thought control or hypnotism were not in His line. He used no tricks, He did not make His points by shouting, or by saying the same thing over and over as a cheap politician does, till finally he begins to believe it himself. Not of that was in Jesus. His way was to speak the truth—just as simple as that; only unlike some teachers and preachers, who can make any truth sound dismal and dull when they get through threshing it to chaff, Jesus made the truth not only interesting but unforgettable, not only interesting but after startling.

The Kingdom of the Spirit

Jesus had an authority that went deeper than the mind. Deeper, that is, if you think of "mind" as most people do, as being what you think with. There is a something in man, and soul may be the best word to describe something that cannot be seen or felt but known only from inside—there is a something which is more than mind; something that reaches beyond the stars — beyond the kind of existence we know, reaches out to God Himself. Jesus was master of men's souls as He was of their minds. He was an authority on them, and over them. We can put this in another way by saying that in religion and morality, Jesus had the last word. To this day, even among persons who are not Christians, there is an insight into right and wrong that was not known before Jesus' time. No one who lived in the same century, who was a teacher, was able to teach so enduringly as He. No other name from the first century. Christians would say no name in all history, is as influential today. Life brings us many questions, but the most serious, searching, burning questions are those that science cannot answer. What is the purpose of living? How can I please God? How can I find God? How can I come to terms with God? When I have slipped into the mire, what power can make me clean? These are the heart-questions; and Christ is lord of the heart.

Pastor Says

THE RISING CRIME RATE

Allow me to throw in my "two-bits" on the rising crime rate in America. It is up 7 per cent and most of the rise is in the juvenile age group. Mr. Hoover, who releases documentary-ocassionally, has the best picture of the causes and cures of any single source in America.

The March fourth editorial of the News carried an article which makes sense in some areas. Though I can't agree on all his points, I am sure one statement makes sense. He says, "Among other things of which we are convinced is that it is in large part a moral sickness in the nation."

We do need more law enforcement with less political protection, but there are other factors which must enter the picture. We need and indeed must have a continuously improved personal in the areas of law enforcement. The moral development of an individual is of tremendous value not only in the interpretation of the law but it's enforcement.

Among the first five major factors that influence the life of a child or young person is the police officer. No one far more influence than the church in many instances. I have had the occasion to work with these people in juvenile areas. We have some of the finest. So my plea is that rising crime rate is to have a better adult moral supervision.

The question naturally rises, "How can this come about?" The answer isn't easy as it is singular. But I believe there are two factors, if developed jointly, will stop this spiral upward in our crime rate. They are the Christian Home and the Christian Church.

The sage of Proverbs 22:6 "train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it", has far more value than most of us have been willing to accept. And when the great apostle Paul says "they bring up a child the nurture and instruction of the Lord" he was making an appraisal of history. Even the strongest family life has followed this admonition and they have the lowest percentage crime rate among juveniles in America today.

We can improve this crime trend, making it lower, if we will do more love training in the home. Children are so created to respect authority when properly given. They need the security of authority, and can have it if we follow the pattern of love. This puts a tremendous responsibility upon us adults. We must not invoke this discipline except in the spirit of love. We are not to "provoke to anger."

Then we assume our role as a Christian Church. Here a distinction must be made: for there are organizations and institutions which fly under the banner of the church which may not be Christian. The Christian Church must provide a moral challenge to society. She must hold to and preach fearlessly that "righteousness exhalteth a nation and that sin is a reproach to any people". And she must bring this message within the framework of the gospel of Christ. That is, Christ is man's only and adequate saviour, and giver of the kind of righteousness that will challenge our home and society to a moral example to our youth.

The Christian Church must stay abreast of the times in providing programs and exercises for the youth of the community. We must not leave this to the civic and other charitable agencies. They are well and good, but not one of them is dedicated to the major purpose of the transformation of life through the Lord Jesus Christ. The church too long has been willing to let "somebody else" take over in these areas and simply shrug its shoulders saying "we are in the world but not of it".

The church is very much in the world, and make up the structure of it. The church must "rise up and put on the whole armour of God". Her standard will be increasingly felt by our world as she "awakes out of her sleep".

Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it. Can we afford to do less? One by product is a tremendous influence on the lowering of our crime rate. Support your church, by your attendance and interest.

Water C. McGill Honored With 50 Year Emblem

Monroe Lodge No. 201, AF & AM, held its March stated communication Monday night and honored Walter C. McGill, Lynchburg, with a 50-year Masonic emblem.

McGill, who will be 80 years old Friday, has been a member of Monroe Lodge for the past 50 years. He was born in Blair, Nebr., March 15, 1874, and spent some of his early life there and in Colorado. He met Sallie Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Burke, of Appomattox, in Colorado, around the turn of the century and they were married there.

They moved to Appomattox about 1905, and for some time Mr. McGill worked at the Bank of Appomattox and he and his wife lived at, and ran, the Appomattox Hotel. They moved to Atlanta, Ga., about 1913, and to Greensboro, N.C. in 1919 working as a manufacturer's representative. His wife died there in 1929. In 1940 he moved to Lynchburg and has lived there since. He married the former Mrs. Lucy Fitzsy, now deceased, about 19-43. Although slightly hard of hearing, Mr. McGill is mentally and physically alert and speaks with a strong voice. He reports that he spends his time now doing nothing, and that he has several friends on the block who help him.

Presentation of the pin was made by Charles F. James, also a 50-year member of Monroe, and a third 50-year mason, J. B. Kerns of Route 3, was recognized.

FFA Holds Father-Son Banquet

The annual Father - son banquet of the Robert E. Lee Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was held Friday night, March 8, in the cafeteria of the Appomattox High School. Thomas Lucado, president of the chapter, was master of ceremonies at the affair which was attended by one hundred forty-five members, fathers, and guests.

Thacker Cheatham, chapter sentinel, gave the address of welcome. Introduction of guests present was made by Cecil Deaner, chapter reporter. J. S. Cundiff, state FFA treasurer, extended greetings from the State FFA Association. Sammie Scott and Kenneth Doss with the aid of color slides gave a summary of the year's activities and explained the many phases of work being done by the local FFA Chapter.

A highlight of the annual affair was the presentation of honorary chapter farmer degrees. This award which goes only to adults outside of the FFA is designed to recognize those individuals which have rendered outstanding service to the FFA. Honored by the honorary chapter farmer degree this year were John Ferguson, custodian of Appomattox High School; Mr. B. J. Lucado, father of the chapter president; and Mr. Paul Thompson, forester for Appomattox and Prince Edward counties.

Mr. H.B. Pack, adviser to the chapter, presented medals to those individuals in the chapter that had made outstanding achievements. The individuals that were recognized are: Kenneth Doss, crop farming; Thacker Cheatham, farm mechanics; Ronald Millner, public speaking and dairy farming; Thomas Lucado, livestock and soil and water management; Cecil Deaner, forestry and wildlife. Sammie Scott a senior in vocational agriculture, received the coveted award of Charter Star Farmer. This is the highest recognition that a local chapter can confer upon a member of the FFA.

Ronald Millner, who recently won the Hub Federation public speaking contest, gave his talk entitled "Agriculture Vital to America."

The meal for this special occasion was served by the cafeteria staffs of the Appomattox High School. Members of the Appomattox FHA chapter helped with the serving of the meal.
